

CONFERENCE SCHOLARSHIP GUIDELINES

Scholarship Eligibility

To qualify, you must be a PM&R, Interventional Spine, Orthopedics, Anesthesia or Family Medicine/Sports Medicine physician currently in a Fellowship Program or PGY 3 and above. In preparation of upcoming scholarship opportunity changes, the applicant will have the option this year to submit an abstract (it can be a case study, case series, or prospective/retrospective data on either basic science or clinical research in orthobiologics or advanced interventional orthopedic techniques), a 1 page review of literature (topic of choice on biological treatment), or application only. Scholarships will be given priority based on which option is chosen.

Scholarship Award

Qualified applicant submissions will be reviewed and tiered as follows:

- 1). Those applicants choosing to complete an abstract will receive priority to the scholarship.
- 2). Those applicants choosing to complete the 1pg review (topic of their choice) of literature on biological treatment will receive next priority to the scholarship.
- 3). Those applicants choosing to complete an application only will receive what scholarships are left.

IOF Conference Committee will choose the top six abstracts to present a 10-minute oral/ poster display presentation during the lunch break. These applicants will be announced in January.

All awards will be announced by February 1, 2025.

Applicants can fill out the following application with submission of an abstract or 1 page review and e-mail to: leisha@interventionalorthobiologics.org Abstracts and 1-page reviews must be submitted simultaneously with application.
